Computer Take Back Event – A recycling opportunity

Are you tired of tripping over your old computer or printer? But, just don't know what to do with it? Why not donate it for reuse or recycle it? Shoshin Technologies, Inc. will help you do just that FREE of charge at the Outer Banks eCycling Day "a computer take back event" open to the public on Friday, May 12th and Saturday, May 13th in the Kmart parking lot. It is estimated that 250 million computers became obsolete in the United States in 2005. Some will stay stored in closets, while others will be thrown in landfills. Three million tons of electronic waste enter the landfills each year and much of it is bad for the environment.

Outer Banks eCycling Day will offer businesses and residents a FREE and environmentally sound way of disposing of old equipment. Shoshin Technologies, a computer consulting company in Kill Devil Hills, has partnered with Computer Recycling of Virginia, Inc. for this event. Computer Recycling of Virginia is a non-profit organization that has donated over 5000 refurbished computers and equipment to schools. Together and with the support of the community it is hoped that many tons of electronics will be collected. This equipment will be inspected and reused or recycled by Computer Recycling of Virginia.

This two half-day event will be held in the parking lot of Kmart in Kill Devil Hills from 1 pm to 4 pm on Friday and from 9 am to 1 pm on Saturday. Items accepted will include: Monitors - CRT and LCD, computers, cpus, printers copiers, mice, keyboards, old software, new software, cell phones, stereo equipment, phone equipment, all cables, cards and dongles, etc. No appliances or liquids will be accepted. Televisions will be accepted at a charge - $10 for 20" and under, $25 for 21" and up.

Clean out your clutter! For more information call 449-7603 or email kathleen@shoshintech.com
